Sudden acceleration causes Glencoe crash

Submitted by Jorge Sosa on November 22, 2006 - 10:47am.
Filed under: Police

A driver suffered a possible broken neck Tuesday, in a crash on U.S. Highway 212 in Glencoe.

According to the State Patrol, [REDACTED] of Jackson, Wyo., left the SuperAmerica on Morningside Drive in her 2006 Toyota Tacoma at about 7:05 a.m.

Her vehicle accelerated out of the parking lot and across the eastbound and westbound lanes of Highway 212. It came to rest in the north ditch of the highway. She suffered a possible neck fracture, but the injury was not life threatening. She was taken by ambulance to Hennepin County Medical Center.

The State Patrol has not yet determined whether the sudden acceleration was caused by mechanical failure or driver error. The Glencoe Fire Department and emergency services also responded to the crash.
